BUYERS ARE COMING IN.

All Differences Adjusted In the Tobacco
Market.

ALL IS HARMONY NOW.

Benefit Will Be Permanent
Now That Fight Is Won.

Announcement is made by an official of the Dark District Association that all differences between the tobacco buyers and the Association have been adjusted.

The buyers are coming in from all directions and paying fair and remunerative prices for tobacco held by the Association. The long fight is practically won and the planters of the dark district can price their own tobacco.

Sales so far on the Hopkinsville market have been mainly of low grades of tobacco, but these grades have brought nearly double the prices paid last year. Many farmers are getting more money for their lugs than they did for the best leaf last season.

The ridiculously low prices of last year meant starvation. We will see no more of this condition of affairs. The buying contingent will soon adjust themselves to conditions and all will be happy again.

The farmers have shown a wonderful degree of patience and self-denial. It just took that and firmness to win as they have done. They have fought the strongest trust and money power on this continent. They have had to fight all buying interests wherever located and without a dollar in the organization, all on faith.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. Thos. H. Ennis Appointed
Immigration Agent.

Mr. Thos. H. Ennis, of this city, has been appointed immigration agent of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company (Cotton Belt Route), and now represents the company at Hopkinsville. He succeeds Mr. John Riley, of Henderson. Mr. Ennis is also lessee of Henderson's Opera House.

TABERNACLE LECTURE COURSE

Hopkinsville People Appreciate Good Entertainments.

WE MUST ALL UNITE.

Nothing But Superior Attractions the Coming Season.

Last winter our people enjoyed the best series of entertainments ever presented at the Tabernacle. The Tabernacle representatives of each congregation in the city very wisely elected Mr. H. L. McPherson manager and empowered him to arrange for a season course of popular and respectable entertainments, with the view of at least paying accumulated interest on the debt hanging over the Tabernacle. Mr. McPherson proved equal to the occasion.

Again he has undertaken to do the will of the Tabernacle Board. He has formulated his plans and secured a number of entertainments, a list of which was published a short time since. For the coming course he reports fine success thus far in selling course tickets and is reaching out to the people in the country who will enjoy the good things in store for them and will need no urging to buy season tickets when the matter is properly brought to their attention.

All who hold season tickets get advantage of the extra numbers, which are promised if the season ticket sale will justify the outlay. If two extras are given, this will reduce the cost per attraction to the holder of season tickets to just 20 cents each, and this should be quite an inducement to all to lay the matter before their friends, as by this small outlay you help the sale of tickets, help yourself also. Mr. McPherson promises that the extras, if given, will be fully up to the standard of the other numbers on the course.

Last year about 425 season tickets were sold. This year 800 must be sold to "pay out," as the course will cost about twice the amount paid last year. Now let's all get together on this proposition, as we are all interested, and a good course should be supported here, and the 800 tickets easily sold.

BEET CULTURE

Attracts Several Kentucky
Farmers to Colorado.

Quite a crowd of farmers from Christian, Trigg and Todd counties left Tuesday for Ordway, Colo. Mr. Geo. S. Wharton and Garrett Saltee have already made arrangements to locate and engage in sugar beet culture, which promises a net profit of from $70 to $100 an acre. With them went as prospectors Messrs. D. M. Butler, Robt. Fite, Ben Rutherford, John Robinson and Peyton Day, of Todd county, and Matt Winfree, of Casky. Mr. Winfree has sold his fine farm near Casky, known as the Roberts place, for $15,000 to Mr. Hugh F. Hancock, of Union county. The price was $53 an acre. He may also buy a beet farm in Colorado.

Mr. Wharton is a son-in-law of Mr. Winston Henry, of Casky. His wife and child will go to Colorado as soon as he can build a house on the farm he expects to buy.

$5.00 SHOES FOR $2.50.

The above sounds unreasonable, but as sure as "gun's iron" it's literally true. The United States government is changing its army uniform from tan shoes to black, and are disposing of all stocks on hand. We were fortunate enough to get 1200 pairs; sizes 7, 8's, 9's and 10's only, in A, B, C, D and E widths. These shoes are all lace-made on a plain wide toe, very flexible welt soles, made especially for service and comfort on long marches. Every particle of leather that goes into these shoes was cut out of the heart of the hide. You can't find a piece of flanky or spongy leather as big as your thumb nail in the entire 1200 pairs. Every pair has the name of three United States Government Inspectors stamped on the sole, heel and inner-sole, showing the rigid inspection every shoe must pass before it is accepted.

It is the greatest shoe opportunity we have ever offered since we have been in the shoe business, and the people will not be slow to accept it. We received these shoes on Monday morning, October 16, and during the day sold over 200 pairs, and the first letter we opened this morning, Tuesday, was an order for four pairs from Mr. R. D. Glover, of Trenton. We mention the above merely to prove to you that it will be unwise to delay if you would like to have a pair of Uncle Sam's army shoes worth $5.00 for $2.50.

Wounds, Bruises and Burns.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Senator George T. Fulford, the millionaire and Senator injured in an automobile accident at Newton, Mass., succumbed to his injuries.

Nothing to Fear.

The question of injurious substance in medicines which has been agitating minds of many people, does not concern those who use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need not have hesitancy in continuing to give it to their little ones, as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children, but is a medicine of great worth and merit. It has a world wide reputation for its cures of coughs, colds and croup and can always be relied upon. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Albert A. Combs, a well-known young man of Montgomery, Ala., was waylaid and murdered near Chehaw Station, Ala.

An Awful Cough Cured.

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one who has the whooping cough. Mothers need not have hesitancy in continuing to give it to their little ones, as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children, but is a medicine of great worth and merit. It has a world wide reputation for its cures of coughs, colds and croup and can always be relied upon. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Persons when traveling should exercise care in the use of drinking water. As a remedy that is tried that every traveler carries a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy before leaving home, to be carried in the hand luggage. This may prevent distressing sickness and annoying delay. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

RELATIVE STRENGTH

Of Two Telephone Interest In Ohio and Indiana Shown.

INDEPENDENT IN LEAD.

The Greatest City Growth Is In Chicago—Other Facts.

The relative strength of the two telephone interests, numerically, in Ohio and Indiana, is as follows, which shows that there are two hundred thousand more Independent phones in these two states alone than there are of the Bell phones:

	INDEPENDENTS.	BELL.
Ohio	190,000	91,000
Indiana	140,000	39,000

Total . . . 330,000 130,000

In a large portion of the State of Illinois the general results have been attained as in the majority of the states already mentioned in previous issues of this paper. In Chicago the Illinois Tunnel Company (the Automatic) has its tunnels completed 40 feet below the streets, under the most important business sections of the city. There are over 25 miles of these tunnels at the present time. This company has already constructed one telephone exchange on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Monroe Street, which has 9,000 automatic telephones in service. It is expected this company will have 20,000 telephones working in Chicago within the coming twelve months. The plan has been announced to construct long distance lines from Chicago to the connecting lines of the other Independent companies.

In the State, outside of Chicago, the Independents have over twice as many telephones in service as have the Bell companies. Every city of importance, except Quincy, has an Independent exchange.

In Wisconsin the Independents have over 35,000 telephones, which number is greater than the Bell telephones in the State, outside of the city of Milwaukee.

Besides numerous small exchanges in Minnesota, the cities of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth have large successful exchanges in operation, with more telephones in service than have the Bell companies in these cities. It appears that plenty of capital has been obtained, and a complete exchange and toll line system is being perfected in Minnesota and the adjoining states.

Iowa is the home of 1,200 Independent companies. It has about 140,000 Independent and 58,000 Bell telephones in service. The long distance lines are now receiving more than usual attention and the people of Iowa will soon have adequate exchange and toll line facilities.

Missouri is also ours. St. Louis, with more than 13,000 telephones, exceeds in number those of the Bell; Kansas City's new exchange, with 11,000 subscribers, is driving the Bell to the wall. St. Joseph, Jefferson City, Hannibal, Joplin, Clinton, Springfield, in fact all the cities of the state have Independent exchanges, each larger than the Bell exchange, and it is estimated that there are twice as many Independent as there are Bell telephones in Missouri. Excellent long distance lines are being constructed and the future is assuredly favorable only to the Independents.

In Kansas the number of Independent telephones exceeds 50,000, while the number of the Bell is less than 10,000. In Oklahoma a condition very similar to that in Kansas prevails. The long distance systems connecting Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma are practically completed, and as a rule, are of better construction than are the Bell lines in many of these sections.

In Nebraska, the Dakotas and other Western States the movement is well established and steadily growing; the Lincoln, Neb. Automatic Exchange with 3,000 telephones being particularly strong and thrifty. In Utah a comprehensive and modern development has taken place, with exchanges at Salt Lake City, Ogden, Provo, Logan, etc. These exchanges are entirely of cable construction, and have first-class toll lines covering the state.

In the coast States of the extreme West California and Washington, particularly—a very remarkable development has taken place during the past two years. Southern California has been completely developed by the Independents. In Los Angeles they have over 15,000 telephones in service and are growing at a tremendous rate. Sacramento, the oldest Independent exchange on the coast, has 2,500 telephones. The Astoria, Ore. exchange has been recently completed, also a fine exchange at Seattle, Wash., with 6,500 telephones in service.

The indications are that California, the heretofore famous stronghold of the Bell interest will within a very short time pass into the control of the Independents, and thus be forever freed from the Bell domination, with its high rates and poor service.

As the result of the twenty-five years' history of the Bell movement it has only one and three-quarters millions of telephones now in use by its exchange subscribers in the United States. The result of the nine years of the Independent movement shows two million telephones in service. Of the 180 cities having over 25,000 inhabitants, according to the last census, 75 per cent. now have Independent exchanges in operation. The result referred to may be more clearly seen by the following comparison.

Without competition and during the period of over fifteen years, up to the year 1895, the Bell companies had 243,432 subscribers; since that period and up to the present time, covering nine years, the Bell companies have had exceedingly sharp and successful competition. During these ten years they have, with most extraordinary expenditure of money and effort (as a result of competition), succeeded in increasing their telephones by a million and a quarter.

During the last nine years the Independents without previous exchange, with far less expenditure, have put into service 2,000,000 telephones!

In conclusion, I wish briefly to refer to the very satisfactory financial success of this movement. Few, indeed, have been the number of failures among the 6,000 Independent companies. The Bell Company has compiled and widely advertised its record of these failures, numbering less than a score.

In the United States there are 5,778 National and Savings Banks (World's Almanac, 1904). It is claimed, and I believe properly so, that the number of these bank failures, during each of the past five years, has exceeded the number of telephone companies that have failed during that entire period, no other class of business can make such a splendid showing, and no other business is of greater permanency or in greater demand in both the commercial or social world.

The cities of Boston, New York, Washington, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, and San Francisco are the only cities having more than 200,000 population in which telephone competition has not been established. Each of the cities just named has a local Bell licensee company, which at present is very prosperous. Other licensee Bell companies have ceased paying dividends, and are understood to be in unsatisfactory financial condition.

The various licensees or operating companies of the American Bell were capitalized years ago, and before competition existed, resulting in overcapitalization under present conditions. It seems certain that these companies, as a rule, cannot continue to pay interest on their securities, and also the royalties to the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. The policy of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company may possibly be foreshadowed as to its subordinate companies in the recent failure, foreclosure, sale, and reorganization of the Michigan Telephone company in which it held a large interest.

That the future appears to have an abundance of success and comfort to the Independents none will deny, who are both posted and honest. Knowing their ability to furnish the very best quality of telephone service and at the lowest reasonable rates, and knowing that they have the confidence of the people, the Independent companies will go on to that assured success to which they are entitled by reason of their past efforts and accomplishments.—Telephone Development.

PINEAPPLE FOR DIGESTION.

Juice of This Fruit May Take Place of Pepsin in Relieving Stomach of Dishes.

Pineapple juice bills fail to take the place of pepsin as an encourager of digestion. Recent investigations have shown that for such a purpose it is wonderfully efficacious, rivaling it if it does not excel the product of poor piggy.

If a piece of ordinary beefsteak be placed in a bowl of pineapple juice, it is found, after a few hours, to be reduced to a lump of mere jelly, having undergone a process of digestion. In the same way the juice, when drunk, acts upon the food in the stomach and is capable of digesting something like a thousand times its own weight of solid substances.

Now, the reason back of these facts is that the juice of the pineapple contains an "enzyme," a species of ferment, which attacks the beefsteak or other food and disorganizes it. It is such an extremely powerful ferment that, acting much in the same way as pepsin, it will, in the course of a few hours, cause the substance upon which it works to dissolve and melt away. The name "brouillon" has been given to it by science.

It is extremely easy to separate the digestive principle from the pineapple juice. All you have to do is to take some of the juice and dissolve a tablespoonful or so of common table salt in it. This will cause the digestive stuff to fall to the bottom of the receptacle, when it may be easily separated. A good-sized pineapple will contain more than a pint of juice—a quantity which is amply sufficient to help in the digestion of half a dozen hearty meals.

How powerful it is may be judged from the fact that a single drop of the fruit laid upon a raw beefsteak, will, in a very short time, change the consistency of the surface to that of a jelly. But it should be realized that cooking destroys the "enzyme," and that the only way to get the benefit of the digestive ferment is to eat the pineapple in its natural state.

ARE YOU WRETCHED IN BAD WEATHER?

Keeping the Kidneys Well Has Kept Many Hopkinsville People Well.

Many Hopkinsville people find that bad weather brings on a dull pain in the back, or rheumatic aching, neuralgia, nervousness, irritability and weakness. If, when you get wet or take cold, it "settles on the kidneys" and there is a shivery, chilly sensation in the back, it shows kidney weakness, which is often the beginning of disease. Doan's Kidney Pills should be used persistently until the chilly feeling is gone and the flow of urine is natural. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped Hopkinsville people much suffering.

Wm. C. Davis, cooper, of No. 608 North Main street, says: "A dull, beating down pain across my kidneys and through the small of my back made it so painful for me to stoop or lift anything that I was unable to do any work or to have any pleasure. Whenever I took cold it settled in my back and at night bothered me a great deal while lying in bed. Sharp twinges often kept me awake for hours and in the morning I arose feeling tired and devoid of all energy and ambition. Finally I happened to read an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they were highly recommended by people near by, I could not but believe that they were a good remedy. I got a box at Thomas & Trubner's drug store, and after using them a few days I could see a decided improvement. I kept on with the treatment and the pains in my back left me entirely and the action of the kidneys was restored to a normal and healthy condition."

WHY BUCK'S HOT BLAST

Heater Will Actually Pay For Itself.

Because Buck's Hot Blast will produce as much heat and as satisfactory a fire in every way, by using the cheapest dollar and a quarter coal, slack or screenings, as other heaters in which you must use high grade soft coal or hard coal. You can see at a glance how soon this saving in fuel will make a Buck's Hot Blast actually pay for itself. It is not the first cost of stove that counts so much, it is what you have to pay to feed it, in coal.

This is the "Buck's Stove."

TAKING IT COOLLY.

Some of many instances of extraordinary coolness in the midst of danger and otherwise that have been recorded, are here afforded to our readers, together with some amusing sayings and doings:

Toward the close of the battle of In. Hermann, in Southern Russia, Lord Kitchener, returning from taking leave of Gen. Strangways, saw a sergeant carrying water to the wounded. The sergeant drew himself up to salute, when a round shot came bounding over the hill, and knocked his forage cap out of his hand. The man picked it up, dusted it on his knees, placed it carefully on his head and made the salute, not a muscle of his countenance moving the while.

"A neat thing, that, my man," said Lord Raglan.

"Yes, my lord," replied the sergeant, "with another salute, 'but a mile is as good as a mile'."

The commander was probably not surprised by such an exhibition of sangfroid, being himself cool that way.

Lord Fitzroy Somerset was badly hurt at Waterloo, and suffered the amputation of an arm. The prince of Orange, who was in the hospital, says of Somerset's nerve:

"I was not conscious of the presence of Lord Fitzroy Somerset until I heard him call out in his ordinary tone: 'Hello! Don't carry that arm away till I have taken off my ring!' Neither word nor operation had elapsed without a groan from his lips."

But there are plenty of people capable of behaving like Spartans when the trouble does not touch their individuality.

"How can I get out of this?" asked an Englishman, up to his armpits in a Scotch bog, of a passer-by.

"I always think you can get out of it," was the response of the Highlander, as he went on his way.

While Gen. Thomas was inspecting the remains of Chancellorsville with Gen. Garfield, they heard some one shout:

"Hello, mister! You! I want to speak to you!"

Gen. Thomas, turning, found that he was the "mister" so pointedly hailed by the East Tennessee soldier.

"Hello, my man," said he, "what do you want with me?"

"I want to get a furlough, mister, that's what I want," was the reply.

"Why do you want a furlough, my man?" inquired the general.

"Waal, I want to go home to see my wife."

"How long is it since you saw her?"

"Well, since I enlisted; nigh onto three months."

"Three months!" exclaimed the commander. "Why, my good fellow, I have not seen my wife for three years!"

The Tennessee looked incredulous and coolly drawled out:

"Waal, you see, me and my wife ain't that sort!"

John Phoenix, the American humorist, being one night at the theater, fancied he saw a friend some three seats in front of him. Turning to his next neighbor, he said:

"Would you be kind enough to touch that gentleman with your stick?"

"Artfully," was the reply, and the thing was done; but when the individual thus assaulted turned round, Phoenix saw he was not the man he took him for, and became at once absorbed in the play, leaving his friend with the cane to settle matters with the gentleman in front, which, as he had no excuse handy, was not done without considerable trouble. When the husband was over the victim said:

"Didn't you tell me to tap that man with my cane?"

"Yes."

"And what did you want?"

"Oh," said Phoenix, with imperturbable gravity, "I wanted to see whether you would tap him or not!"

At the burning of a provision store the crowd helped themselves freely. One man grasped a huge cheese as his share of the plunder. Raising up with it, he found himself face to face with a policeman, and with admirable presence of mind put the plunder into the officer's arms, saying:

"You had better take care of that, policeman, or some one will be walking off with it."

Equally ready to relinquish his loot when there was no help for it was a Chicago negro, caught by a poultry fancier in the act of carrying off some of his live stock, and challenged with:

"What are you doing with my chickens?"

"I was gwine ter fetch 'em back, boss," exclaimed he. "Der's a nigger roan' here what's his disputin' along er me 'bout dem chickens. I said dey was Cochin Chynin, an' he said dey was Alabamian pullets; an' I was jes' takin' 'em roan' fer ter 'tablish my noilidge. Dey don't lay no algs, does dey, boss? Ef dey does, I'm mighty shore er bustlin' 'em roan'." Algs is scarce."

Taken Unaware.

One of the most ingenious methods in the world for photographing persons and keeping them in ignorance of the fact is that of the bank of France. The bank has a hidden studio in a gallery behind the cashier's desk, so that at a signal from one of the bank employees any suspected customer will instantly have his picture taken without his own knowledge.

Good Bargain.

Old Uncle Elias used to say that no bargain is a good one unless both sides feel that they have gained some advantage by it. Russia and Japan have made a good bargain, according to that theory.

Only 125 cases remain under treatment and the Emergency Hospital will be closed this week to yellow fever patients. Mississippi had 10 new cases and 1 death and is almost ready to report the epidemic at an end. Pensacola is not improved any. Tuesday there were 19 new cases and 5 deaths, making 62 to date.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever, nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Catarrh's Cure. Send for circular free.

Rheumatism

Is one of the constitutional diseases. It manifests itself in local aches and pains,—inflamed joints and stiff muscles,—but it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires constitutional treatment acting through the blood, and the best is a course of the great medicine

The motion to advance the hearing in the case of the State of Kentucky vs. James Howard, convicted of complicity in the murder of Gov. Goebel, made in the Supreme Court of the United States last Tuesday, was denied by the court. The case already has an advanced place on the docket and will probably be heard in December in the regular order of business.

There have already been two lynchings in Kentucky this month. The failure of the courts to punish crime promptly and properly is a compromise of the death of her husband. Mrs. House sued H. B. McWilliams, a saloon-keeper, for $2,000 damages, alleging that he sold her husband liquor, and that after drinking it he went with a companion to Milltown, where they engaged in a fight, in which House received injuries which caused his death. Under the Indiana law a saloon-keeper is liable for damages when a man to whom he sells liquor is killed or injured as a direct or indirect result of the liquor.

The Filipino wife of Lieut. S. S. Burbank, of the Sixth Infantry, has been granted a divorce and the custody of their daughter, with monthly alimony. Lieut. The formalities of dissolution have been completed and Norway and Sweden are now separate kingdoms. Prince Charles, of Denmark, will be invited to be king of Norway and will probably accept.

Early Tuesday morning a horse, driven by Mr. Wainwright Lewis, ran away on Walnut street and came near causing serious injury to the driver and his friend who was with him in the buggy. The horse then made another dash and fell into an excavation made for sewer pipe, but got out again without injury to himself or buggy.

CHILD'S CORPSE

Kept Packed in Sawdust For Three Weeks.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 16.—Three weeks ago the 12-year-old son of Allen Free, who lives in a shanty boat on the Illinois side of the river from here, died, and since that time the father has kept vigil over the body and refused to allow it to be disturbed. The body has been packed in sawdust.

Free is supposed to be crazy. The Sheriff here will not take action in the matter until ordered to do so by the court. Free declares he will kill any one who attempts to rob him of his son as he expresses it.

It is thought that to-morrow County Judge Lightfoot will issue to the Sheriff the necessary orders, and as both the Sheriff and Free are known to be fearless, serious trouble is expected.

Some people complain at the wretched condition of the streets and sidewalks since the sewer company began tearing the streets up. We had just as well begin now getting used to annoyances caused by the introduction of big enterprises. This is only a starter for Greater Hopkinsville.

All our merchants expect to do a big business this fall, and why shouldn't they? We have had one of the finest crop years (though wheat was a little short) ever known, the farmer is getting nearly double the old price for tobacco, everybody is getting out of debt and times are bound to be good.

All the pastors of the Christian churches in Cincinnati are holding evangelistic services in their own houses of worship. Rev. Joe D. Armistead is being assisted by Rev. H. D. The large auditorium will be used and will be beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers and a lengthy and interesting program is being prepared for the occasion. Engage in Big Business at Richmond, Va.

Messrs. Tom and George Howell, sons of Col. W. R. Howell, have bought out a large hardware house in Richmond, Va., and will engage in business in that city. Possession was given Oct. 9 and George is in charge of the establishment. Tom, who has a traveling position, will not locate in Richmond until Nov. 1. Their store is the leading hardware establishment of the city.

Both young men have a host of friends here who will learn with pleasure of their business venture and who wish for them unbounded success.

"THE FORTUNE TELLER"

Will be at Holland's Opera House, Oct. 24.

Some idea of the magnitude of the production of "The Fortune Teller" can be gathered from the fact that there are no less than twenty-three changes of costume for the chorus. The equipment which Milton and Sargent Aborn are using is known to be a most elaborate one, for it is the original production which was made for Alice Neilson, and her management spent some $40,000 on the mountings of the opera. "The Fortune Teller" tells a most amusing story in Harry B. Smith's best vein, and the music, by Victor Herbert, America's most popular composer, is most melodious. Messrs. Aborn are reported to have got together a company which does full justice to Mr. Herbert's splendid score and Mr. Smith's excellent comedy. The organization is a large one, made up of artists of known reputation, said to be not only one of the strongest singing shows of the season, but a veritable beauty display as well.

MRS. LONG A VICTIM.

Dr. Cayce Died at the Asylum Tuesday—Mr. O. A. West Dead.

After being long confined to her bed with dropsy, Mrs. M. C. Long died yesterday morning at her home on West Seventh street, at 4:15 o'clock.

The end was looked for, as she had been losing strength for many days. She had been unconscious for five days and nights, though at intervals she recognized members of the family and talked intelligently for a few minutes.

Mrs. Long was married to the late Geo. W. Long when only in her sixteenth year and was only 65 at the time of her death. She was a native of this county but came to this city many years ago.

She was the mother of five children, four of whom survive her, namely, Mr. W. A. Long, Mrs. J. W. Tunks, Mrs. Stonewall Morris and James L. Long, all of this city. Her youngest daughter, Miss Viola Long, died two years ago.

Mrs. Long was a consistent member of the Baptist church, with which she united when a young woman. Though of a retiring disposition she was a great favorite with her neighbors and a lady of many good deeds.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 o'clock this morning, conducted by her pastor, Dr. C. H. Nash, and her body was laid to rest in Hopewell cemetery.

DR. E. G. CAYCE

Died Rather Suddenly at the Asylum Tuesday.

The relatives of Dr. E. G. Cayce were shocked to hear of his rather sudden death at the asylum Tuesday morning. The cause of his death was heart disease. The deceased is survived by his wife, two daughters and two sons, who are now living at Citronville, Ala. They were promptly notified of Dr. Cayce's death and that his body would be held for burial until they could come here.

Mr. Irwin Cayce, of this county, is a brother, and Mrs. Alice Cayce Hill is a sister of the deceased. The Cayce family is said to be the largest in this county.

Dr. Cayce was born on his father's farm, near the city, in 1848. When quite a young man he determined to become a physician and surgeon and left the farm to enter the office of his brother-in-law, Dr. W. M. Hill, of the homeopathic school. He was a close student and in a short time went to Philadelphia to enter the Hahnemann Medical College. After graduating he returned to Hopkinsville and practiced medicine and surgery for two or three years. He was called to the chair of surgery in one of the large hospitals of St. Louis. He afterwards located in Huntsville, Ala., and engaged in the practice of his profession. Soon his health began to fail, and after returning to his old home his mind soon gave way, and about 1888 he was taken to the asylum in the hope that he would soon recover. Through all these long years he has received the kindest treatment of the officials and others, who became closely attached to him. The frequent visits of his relatives were always highly enjoyed by the doctor, who was cheerful and hopeful to the last.

It was impossible for Mrs. Cayce and other members of the family to reach Hopkinsville, until last night and the remains will be interred in Hopewell this morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence of Dr. Hill.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Former Secretary Objects to Our Obituary of the Defunct Club.

MR. EDITOR:—I beg leave to take issue with you on one of your statements in Saturday's Kentuckian. In speaking of the Commercial club you say: "The club was dead, never has kicked since and not a single thing was done during its short life to commemorate its existence."

Now, let me point out a few things that the club did and it is possible some one may differ with you as to your statements.

1st. A committee was sent to Louisville and held a meeting with the officials of the L. & N. and L. C. railroads and succeeded in getting our coal rates reduced from 90 to 70 cents a ton, which, on the amount of coal shipped into our city, has amounted to thousands of dollars; and coal was then selling at 11c per bushel and today it is selling at 9c per bushel.

2nd. The commercial club heard of a company of surveyors near Cumberland River. Addresses were secured, communication began, a subscription taken, a committee sent to Nashville and a contract made with Mr. Baxter, and the T. C. Railroad is the result.

3rd. Mr. Wheat, Mr. Rosevane and several other gentlemen came to Hopkinsville and at a meeting of the commercial club the first subscription was taken for the Y. M. C. A. building, and today you will see it climbing up on Ninth street.

4th. The H. N. Martin Greenville Tobacco company bought and operated by Mr. J. H. Eggleston, had its inception in the commercial club.

5th. The Home Telephone Company (your special pet) was born in the commercial club, and while some people may doubt its direct benefits, none will doubt that it caused the Cumberland to get a hustle on itself and erect that handsome building on Ninth street.

Its influence has been felt in every line of business and its full results will not be known for several years yet.

The club is not active now and I agree with you that it is needless to try to resuscitate it, because the members will not attend. However, the correspondence is being almost daily carried on. I answered three letters the very day your article appeared, and I am satisfied the result of one of those will be an investment of more than one hundred thousand dollars in our city.

During the life of the club I received a great many propositions and if they would interest your readers I could give them to you, but as they resulted in nothing they were never written up.

I have had enough experience, I think, to know a business proposition and if one comes to the city you may rest assured I will put it before the people.

Very truly yours,
H. H. ABERNATHY.

HON. JOHN TIGHE.

Assemblyman Tighe's letter should be read by every brain worker leading a strenuous life.

Hon. John Tighe, No. 36 Benson St., Cohoes, N. Y., Member of Assembly from the Fourth district, Albany county, N. Y., writes as follows:

"Peruna has my hearty endorsement as a restorative tonic of superior merit. At times when I have been completely broken down from excess of work, and my faculties seemed actually at a standstill, Peruna has acted as a healing restorative, starting the machinery of mind and body afresh with new life and energy."

"I recommend it to a man tired mind and body as a tonic superior to anything I know of and well worthy serious consideration."—J. Tighe.

Excess of work so common in our country causes impaired nerves, leading to catarrh and catarrhal nervousness—a disease that is responsible for half of all nervous troubles.

Peruna cures this trouble because it cures catarrh wherever located. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Good times 't'll come back to our planet, I

Playing the Game to Win

By S. E. KISER

THE count was bowing gracefully before her and vowing that it was all "delightfully unconventional," when Thornton ran up the steps. He had hoped to get there before the foreigner was introduced to her, but a nail in one of his tires had upset his calculations, and it looked now as if his hopes, too, might as well be abandoned.
"What's the matter, old man?" asked Billy Renshaw, as Thornton, 15 minutes later, flung a magazine aside and went out of the clubhouse to find a chair on the porch.
"What makes you think anything's the matter? Am I breaking out or turning spotted?"
"Oh, no. Only, if I were you I'd try to look a little less murderous. By the way, I see it's a clear case with his noble count and Bertha Paulding."
"Do you think so?"
"Haven't you seen them?"
"I arrived as he was being introduced to her, a little while ago. What's become of them?"
"They're in the billiard-room. He's giving her a lesson."
"You seem to be taking a deep interest in the affair."
"I am. Jimmie Farnham and I have

"WHAT WILL THE COUNT SAY?"
a bet on it. It'll cost me a suit of clothes if her engagement to the count isn't announced within a week."
Thornton's hands closed tightly, but he quickly overcame whatever savage intentions he may have had and asked: "What reason have you to think that she's hunting a little?"
"Did you ever see a woman who wasn't crazy for one? And, of course, she's bound to get him, because her father has money and none of the rest of the girls can touch her for looks."
Thornton tossed a half-smoked cigarette out on the grass and went inside. When he entered the billiard-room the count was endeavoring to explain the philosophy of the mass.

"I'm so glad you've come," said Miss Paulding. "Now you and Count D'Estreville can have a game, and I'll watch you and see which is the—"

"The better man?" Thornton asked when she hesitated.
"Oh, no, I wasn't going to say that. One might be skillful at this game and still not be a better man than a very poor player, mightn't one?"

Her question was addressed to the count, who shrugged his shoulders expressively and assured her that it was all "delightfully unconventional."
At the end of the game, which the count won easily, Thornton put up his cue and turned to Miss Paulding to ask: "Do you still think one might be a skillful player and not be a better man than one who played poorly?"
"I don't believe you tried as hard as you could," she answered.
"I think the count would have caught me at it if I had played off."

The count indicated by another shrug that he would undoubtedly have discovered any attempt on the part of his opponent to throw the game.

"No," Thornton continued, "I never indulge in that sort of thing. When I play a game, no matter what it may be, I play it with all my might."

"Are you sure of that?" she asked with a smile that he didn't understand. "I think I know of one game in which you once took part that you played rather carelessly."
She looked back at him as the count was leading her away. There was on Thornton's face a look that she could not mistake, but she smiled again and called:

"Aren't you going to dance this evening?"
"My music is stalling."
He claimed her later for a walk and then asked her if she wouldn't rather sit out on the porch, where it was cool and "very well," she said, "if you don't enjoy dancing with me. I'm rather tired."
His hope to ignore her challenge and led her to a corner where they could be alone.

"I suppose I ought not," he said, "to drag you away from the count, but this is probably the last chance I'll have and there's one or two things I want to say to you. Of course you don't know that there are people around here who have begun to bet on you, do you?"

"I hadn't heard of any such thing."
"A wager was made a little while ago that involves a suit of clothes on each side. The announcement of your engagement to the count will have to be made within a week, or some one will lose."
"How interesting. Let me see—a suit of clothes is what a gentleman usually bets on an election, isn't it?"

"It's likely to be."
"I am immensely flattered. An election ought to be an important thing. And if what is bet on an election is bet on me I must also be important, mustn't I?"
The count will be amused when I tell him about it. He will regard it as one of our delightful unconventionalities. Oh, that music is too good to lose. Don't you want to dance?"

The count was waiting for her when they finished, and it was two weeks later when she and Thornton met again. Billy Renshaw had won his bet. Her engagement to Count D'Estreville had been announced within the specified time, and her sister, Mrs. Richmond, was one of the happiest women in the world. It was she, in fact, who had heralded the glad news.

Thornton had taken dinner at the club and was sitting alone in a corner of the big living-room. She stood beside him before he knew that she had entered.

"Well," she said, extending a hand, "aren't you going to congratulate me?"
"I suppose I'll have to, to be polite. But I'm not sure that you are the one to be congratulated."
"Very nice of you to say that—after you've lost."

"After I've lost—yes. But I've got so used to losing that I don't expect anything more."
"What a pessimist! I suppose you're blaming poor old Fate, too."

"No, I don't believe in Fate. It's just a case of people. If other people could find happiness in making me happy the whole question would be solved. But there's the trouble. To make me happy it would be necessary for other people to make themselves miserable. So I continue to lose."

"Still, I don't believe you would keep on losing if you always really played to win. One can hardly expect to be victorious when one gives one's game away. Your tailor probably is glad, though."

"I don't see where he comes in."
"The suit that you will have to pay for. Isn't he going to make it?"
After he had explained that he had not been a party to the wager they sat looking steadily at each other for a long time.

"But," she said at last, "you haven't yet convinced me that you always play to win."
There was something in the way she said it that brought him out of his stupor, and he caught her hands and held them.

"What," he asked, when she insisted that they must not remain there alone any longer, "will the count say?"
"I don't know," she answered with a sigh. "Probably he will call it another of our delightful unconventionalities."

Difficult Task.
"How can I get the ladies of my congregation more interested in sewing?" asked the earnest young rector of the fashionable church.
"You might intimate that things will be exclusive there," replied the old parsonage lady. "By such means you may be able to arouse a mild interest."

Working Elephants.

There are forty elephants in the menagerie department of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows. Each of the huge beasts has special work to do. None of them waxes fat in idleness. Some draw heavy cages, some perform in the circus rings, two do police duty in looking after the herd, three are waiters and carry the exact portion of hay and bran and sugar beets to each of the enormous troupe, one is a sort of waiting maid upon the proud mother of Baby Boo, the little baby elephant, several are utility fellows called upon to do odd and end jobs, a group of newly landed are kept apart until they get over "homesickness," five give an exhibition of East Indian logging and lumber industry, and twenty are in the acting stock company, which has an extensive repertoire of tricks for the ring acts. Herr Somer, the trainer of these ponderous animals, has achieved greater results in the education of the elephant than any man in the amusement world of to-day or days that are gone.

OUT ON BOND.

Some Salty Charges Against North Christian Citizen.

E. W. Lantrip, who is charged with attempting to defraud the county out of money, was taken into custody Tuesday morning by Deputy Sheriff Clark. The grand jury returned twelve indictments against Lantrip recently. He is charged with having made false and fraudulent claims on the fiscal court for work alleged to have been done on a public road in North Christian, which was ordered opened a few weeks ago. Lantrip was overseer of the road and he filed claims aggregating about $200 against the county for work which he claims was done under his supervision. It is charged that he filed claims in three names, who are said to be the same person. Other claims were for lumber, material, etc. The matter was brought to the notice of the grand jury and an investigating committee was sent to the scene. They reported that so far as they could see no work had been done on said road. The claims were rejected by the fiscal court. When Lantrip was arrested bail in each case was fixed at $200, making $2,400, but was later reduced to $1,200. Bond was furnished yesterday and the defendant was released from jail. His trial will come up at the next term of circuit court.
